HEUER CASE WITNESS IS PAROLED BY CO. OFFICERS

Tony Andrade of San Pablo, who has been held in the county jail for the past 30 days on a charge of vagrancy was granted parole by Sheriff Veale and District Attorney A. B. Tinning Thursday.

Andrade is a brother of Mrs. Emma Cabral of Richmond, whose husband, Manuel Cabral, was slain near his home in this city January 6.

Andrade has been questioned by the officers a number of times during his incarceration, it is stated, regarding any knowledge he might have of the crime which has been charged to Henry Heuer, but according to the authorities nothing new in the case has been revealed.

WESLEY SCENE FOR LEAGUE MEET

Wesley Methodist church was the scene last night of an interesting and interested group of young church workers, when members of the Epworth League assembled as guests of the Wesley High School Epworth League.

"One of the most successful gatherings of young people held for a long time," was the way Rev. Paul Little, pastor, characterized the meeting.

Harry Hollidge, of Oakland, had charge of the singing. Miss Blanche Bowers gave an address on "Epworth League Methods." This was followed by a "Jolly-Up Hour" under the direction of Harry Baldwin, formerly of Richmond. An inspirational address by Secretary Williams, of the Oakland "Y" was enjoyed. He formerly was for fifteen years engaged in "Y" work in Australia.

A sumptuous supper was served at 6:30.

Dr. Thomas A. Boyer went to Martinez last night and addressed the Masonic lodge of that city following the routine business of the lodge.

BUSINESS MEN PLAY GOOD VOLLEY BALL

The business men's volley ball teams were out in strong force at the high school gymnasium yesterday afternoon. Spirited contests and a fine man's sport were enjoyed.

Politics Now Engage People At El Cerrito; Stenberg Quits

The resignation of P. A. Sternberg as a member of the Board of Trustees of the city of El Cerrito was accepted by the oard at its meeting last evening, and this means that there will be three vacancies to be filled at the coming election to be held April 10th, two will be for the full term, and one will be for the unexpired term. Sternberg has gone into business at Fort Bragg.

Already there are rumors of many dark horses who will enter the fight and already there are a number who have "cast their hats in the ring" and are willing that the lightning should strike their way.

So far the known candidates are Robert W. Connolly, Frank W. McDermott and John D. Fregulia. They are all new men in the field and it is said very well liked.

A week ago it was stated that Trustee Frank D. Grant would not be a candidate to succeed himself, but last night the rumor got around that Grant would positively be a candidate to succeed himself, and while Trustee Peter Larsen would not commit himself as to his intentions, it is stated on the best authority that he will be in the field, and considers that he will be in the wire at the finish.

Undoubtedly from the gossip that is heard in the county line town, other candidates will appear in the field before the end of the following week, and the election in April promises to furnish all kinds of excitement.

Assessor Calls Meeting Saturday of His Deputies

On next Monday actual work on the preparation of the assessment rolls of Contra Costa county for this year will be undertaken by the field deputies of County Assessor George C. Meese.

Work on making assessments on property throughout the county will continue until the first of July, when the rolls will be prepared and turned over to the county auditor.

On Thursday in announcing the work of the assessment deputies for the season Meese stated that a meeting of his entire staff will be held in his office Saturday afternoon when details of the assessment work for this year will be gone into in detail.

During the past several weeks Meese has been holding conferences with committees from the various sections of the county relative to the assessments for the year and he states that the co-operation of property owners in the matter has proven of great value to his office.

Good Gold Struck By Richmondites

C. H. Weldon, superintendent of the Sierra Gold Mining company at Allegheny, Sierra county, arrived home last evening, and will spend a few days with his family.

Weldon and his crew of men are in 40 feet on a new drift, and they are already striking the yellow stuff. Weldon brought specimens with him from an adjoining mine that would just simply make your mouth water.

Trustees In Row Over Rich Man's Club

When the bill of the Hutchinson Quarry company for $275.32 for rock furnished in the building of a road to the golf club was presented at the meeting of the trustees, the fireworks flew and animated words passed between Trustees Lee, Larsen and Grant.

Larsen touched off the bomb by stating that he had refused to approve the bill, as he did not think the city should pay it, as he did not believe the general taxpayers should pay for the building of a road for a lot of rich fellows, who had no use for El Cerrito, and even adopted the name of the "Berkeley" Country Club.

Lee came back with the reply that the statement was a reflection on him as he had discussed the matter with members of the board some time ago and it seemed to be all right at that time. He accused Trustees Larsen and Grant of doing a lot of talking on the outside, which they should do at the meeting of the board.

This aroused the ire of Grant, and he vehemently denied ever having made any statements that would reflect on Lee, and further asserted that he would gladly face any man who stated he had been doing a lot of talking that he should not. Lee agreed to take Grant to face the man, and also stated that if the fellow backed water, he would apologize to Grant.

This seemed to smooth the troubled waters for a time, and then Grant insisted that the bill be determined right there and then. Conlon suggested that it go over for a week, but Grant demanded a vote, with the result that the claim was adopted by the vote of Grant, Conlon and Lee, Larsen voting no.

BOY SCOUTS 50 STRONG TURN OUT

"Be prepared!"

About fifty potential Boy Scouts last night at a meeting held in the Richmond Y. M. C. A. rooms heard the above motto of the organization read.

They also were given the oath.

F. E. Leedom, acting commissioner, was in charge of the meeting, and is greatly enthused at the prospects.

"We ought at least to have three hundred active Boy Scouts in Richmond," Leedom told the Record-Herald last night. "We have six good men to act as scoutmasters, and we are going to do everything to put the Scouts forward in this city," continued the leader.

Leedom read the laws to the boys, and gave them the oath, which is as follows:

"On my honor I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country; to obey the Scout laws; to help other people at all times; to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight."

Next Thursday evening there will be another meeting at which the expansion plans will be accomplished.

War Mothers Meet Today At Home Of Mrs. C. F. Donnelly

Work on the $1,000,000 transformer station of the Great Western Power Company which is to be erected west of the quarries of the Hutchinson Quarry Company in El Cerrito, is to start at once and rushed to completion as soon as possible.

This was made known at the meeting of the trustees of the city of El Cerrito when A. Sheldon, representing the power company appeared before the board and asked for permission to construct a spur track from the main line of the Santa Fe road, along Schmidt lane to the property of the company.

The transformer station is to be one of the largest in the state of California, and Sheldon stated that as vast quantities of cement and rock had to be moved the company wished to place itself in a position to handle the goods as rapidly as possible.

The board informed Mr. Sheldon that it would be pleased to co-operate in every possible way, and the work of grading for the spur track will be started this morning.

The new improvement, as soon as actual work on the transformer station starts, will give employment to a large number of men.

$80,000 Will Be Spent To Pave Streets of El Cerrito

The inisial step in a street improvement campaign, the first portion of which will cost nearly $80,000, was taken by the trustees of the City of El Cerrito at their meeting last evening when they passed a resolution of intention for street work on five streets.

Portions of Everett, Norval, Richmond, Elm and Eureka streets are to be improved with a water macadam pavement, including concrete curbs and gutters, but no sidewalks.

The work will we done under the improvement act of 1911. According to the estimate filed with the trustees by City Engineer W. S. Farley, the work will cost $77,245.20, and bonds will be issued to cover the cost of the work.

As there are a number of expensive culverts that will have to be constructed the trustees decided to take $1,000 out of the general fund and apply to this purpose.

Bennett, dictator; Joe Gardella, vice dictator; J. A. McGinnis, prelate; E. Fenwick, trustee; John Alexander, trustee; Theodore Iverson, treasurer; W. B. Jenkins, past dictator. Fifteen candidates were initiated.

A delightful entertainment followed, featuring Maude Rockwell in songs, Roy Patterson, bass soloist, and Scotty McLellan, Scotch comedian. Denny Shaw, leading the six-piece Moose orchestra, gave some tuneful numbers. A banquet was served. J. A. McGinnis was chairman of the entertainment committee.

Officers will be installed on the last Thursday in March.

William S. Stephens, 3315 Thirty-fifth ave., superintendent of the Fruitvale branch post office, reported to the Oakland police that some one stole a bee hive and a swarm of honey bees from his back yard after cutting a hole in the wire fence.

That the culprit was a small boy—about ten years old—was declared by neighbors who told the police they had seen a lad fairly haunting the vicinity of the bee hives for the past week.

Knudsen and Jeffreys were arrested in San Diego last week after they had joined the army and robbed an oil station there. They were sent to Alameda.

MADSEN QUITS CONFIDENTIAL POST; TO GO IN BUSINESS

Martin Madsen, private secretary to Governor William D. Stephens, yesterday announced that he will resign to accept a post as general manager of the East Bay Corporation of Oakland, a newly formed organization to promote extensive commercial interests in the trans-bay area.

While Madsen's resignation has not been placed before the governor formally, it was understood that he was withholding it only until a decision as to his successor had been reached. He expects to retire early this month. His new field is in association with Norman de Vaux, State Senator Arthur H. Breed and other Oakland investors, who have launched, as the first unit of their enterprise, a public market on a large scale at Nineteenth street and Telegraph avenue, Oakland, representing an investment, it was stated of $500,000.

Madsen is to be general manager of that concern.

Politicians Surprised

The retirement of Madsen from his post at Sacramento came as a surprise to most of the politicians and State officials who are in touch with the State government. It leaked out from Oakland before Madsen had intended that it should become public, for the reason that he desired to await selection of his successor. No definite selection has been made, according to the information from the governor's office.

Speculation broaches the names of Henry Frazier, the Governor's executive secretary, and Mrs. Virginia Allbright, the Governor's private stenographer, who has been actively identified with much of the inside detail of the Governor's office.

Madsen Newspaper Man

Madsen was a newspaper man before he entered politics. He held positions in San Francisco, Los Angeles and Washington, D. C. He is admitted to the practice of the law.

BRYAN AND INTOLERANCE

If there is any one thing on earth which the free people of the United States of America will not stand for it is intolerance, either political or religious, and the bigots who undertake to practice anything of that sort are going to find rough sledding.

There is now going on a controversy between President Birge, of the University of Wisconsin, and William Jennings Bryan, well-known to all of us politically, which is attracting widespread attention from press and pulpit. Because of certain remarks made by the college head Mr. Bryan accuses him of atheism, which he resents and denies. We have never heard that Mr. Bryan, for whom we have the highest regard, was regarded as authority on science or philosophy, however much he may be regarded as authority politically, yet he bravely and boldly enters that field of profundity, and marks out a creed which humanity must adopt and adhere to or be forever damned. Replying to the attack made upon him the president of Wisconsin college accuses Mr. Bryan of being a direct descendant of the Fifteenth century infallibles, who claimed, as does Voliva, head push of Zion City, near Chicago, that the world is flat, and who proved their own adherence to the Gospel of Love by burning and torturing countless victims who failed blindly to accept their interpretations of spiritual and moral practice.

We have no desire to butt into the controversy or argument going on between these two learned gentlemen. They both are entirely welcome to believe that the moon is made of green cheese if they want to, or Swiss cheese, either. The stand we are taking is that any man in this land of the free and home of the brave is entitled to worship his own God in his own manner, and that he is better off worshiping any old kind of a God, in any old kind of a manner, than in not worshiping any God in any manner. He has the same right politically, and in a good many other ways, and religious or political, or any other brand of intolerance is not going to be put up with, from Mr. Bryan or anybody else.

As we gallop to press another person is under suspicion as the probable murderer of Taylor, the movie man. This makes steen hundred and forty-even. Will Hays had better be preparing an alibi.

Representative Underhill of Massachusetts says some of his colleagues are so dense of dome as to think that Easter Sunday is a sister to Billy Sunday. We knew that long ago.

New York movie owners have agreed not to show any picture in which a star performer appears who has been proved to be immoral. They will have to dig up a new lot of stars, then.

Brisbane wonders what Egypt would do with freedom from England if it got it, and quotes Schwab as wondering what the little dog that chases the express train would do if he caught it. The deduction, as far as the dog is concerned, is erroneous. He does not want to catch it, but to impress upon it the threat that if it don't keep off his farm he will bite it. And we don't blame him.

We can all be thankful that way up beyond the grimy skyscrapers of this life is the brilliant blue of the heavens, and beyond them, somewhere, is God, of which all of us are an actual part and ingredient.

It is not hard to grasp an opportunity, as hundreds of them are flitting by the door every day, but many of them are greased with Standard oil, or other grease, or political soft soap, or such lubricant, and slip through our hands.

And now it is proposed to meet the soldiers' bonus by issuing certificates, to run twenty years, bearing interest, upon which the soldier can borrow one-half at bank, and if he does not take up the loan in due time the Government will assume it. Sort of robbing Peter to pay Paul. It's a better scheme than the sales tax, at that.

HUNDRED-TO-ONE CHANCE

According to United States chemists, that is what you are taking of getting poisoned, quite likely fatally, when you take a drink of the bootleg liquor now being peddled. In case you escape death, then you are more than likely to become stone blind, or insane, for the reason that in nearly all the stuff wood alcohol is a prominent ingredient. So, in case you contemplate testing any of it, or absorbing it into your system, it will be well for you first to make out your will, making proper distribution of your property, and such arrangements as you desire relative to the obsequies. If you prefer the flowers in shape of a cross, a wreath or an anchor, say so, and then your friends will know just how to proceed. Also state whether you prefer white marble or granite as a headstone, and what you want inscribed on it. You really ought to include, also, instructions as to whether you want a dog or a small boy to lead you around by a chain or string in case you go blind, and, in the event that it is insanity, whether you want your cell padded or upholstered, and how, and what color scheme you would like it in. All these details will save your friends and family much trouble and worry.

The Internal Revenue Department, after making thousands of tests of the liquor now circulating as whisky, state that as a mathematical fact it is all poisonous. They do not make this statement as an ardent prohibitionist might, on the theory that all alcohol is poisonous, but they mean poison just as we all do when we speak of any poison that will produce death, blindness or insanity. All the Government chemists agree that anybody drinking any of this stuff is taking grave chances, and that while some of it will take a little longer to kill you than other brands, the "kick" in all of it is just invariably in the direction of the cemetery.

The moral, and only logical conclusion to all this is that unless you are several kinds of a pale blue fool you will let all of the bootleg stuff strictly alone, and if you don't, it is going to be your own fool self that is going to suffer the consequences.

Hearst is yelling himself black in the face for the sales tax to meet the proposed bonus. Anything that Hearst favors should come under suspicion on general principles.

Post up your notices early in the spring, so that every housefly will be warned that if he does not keep out and mind his own business, and not butt into the butter and pie and other things, that he is going to be swatted.

The fluid commonly known as "dago red" is used in copious doses as a beverage by many. It is quite capable of stealing away the brain, although frequently handicapped by the absence of the brain.

That postmaster who received by parcel post a bulldog and a chunk of liver in the same sack, must have had a dickens of a mess.

Kiddies should not be allowed to coast on roller skates where there are hills, as it is dangerous. The Lord said, "suffer little children to come unto Me, for of such is the kingdom of heaven," but he did not invite them to come on roller skates.

Speaking of baseball, as many do in this country, do these White Sox and Red Sox fellows ever change sox? We are simply seeking information, not being much of a fan.

Liberality on the liquor question can be demonstrated in other ways than by sampling the bootleg and getting stewed like a prune.

The married woman with a hungry husband and six small children's noses to keep clean during flu times, has no time to spare in which to get out and save the country.

Stand around and listen to a bunch of men talk and you will wonder why men accuse women of talking too much. A pot once called a kettle black.

Pythian Sisters Offer Fine Prizes

The whist party to be given by the Pythian Sisters of Contra Costa Temple No. 113, next Saturday evening at 8:30, promises to attract a large crowd of whist players. The prizes, five in number, are said to be elegant and expensive. The first prize will be a Kewpie electric lamp. The party will be held in the evening and not in the afternoon some reports to the contrary, notwithstanding.

Queries and Answers On Subject Of the Federal Income Law

By NELSON G. WELBURN
Federal Law Advisor and Income Tax Expert. Offices with T. H. De Lap, First National Bank Bldg.
(Questions on the Income Tax addressed to Nelson G. Welburn, care of the Richmond Record-Herald, will be given prompt and careful attention.)

Q. May I change my accounting period for the purpose of rendering my income tax return?—C. J.

A. Yes; if permission is secured from the Commissioner in accordance with Treasury Decision 3032 amending Article 26 of Regulations 45. If a taxpayer who has been rendering his return upon the basis of his accounting period, changes that accounting period and wishes to change the basis of rendering his return to accord with his new accounting period, he shall as soon as possible give to the collector for transmission to the Commissioner written notice of such change and of his reason therefor. The Commissioner will not approve a change of basis of computing net income unless such notice is given at a time which is both (a) at least thirty days before the due date of the taxpayer's return on the basis of his existing taxable year, and (b) at least 30 days before the due date of his separate return period between the close of the existing taxable year and the date designated as the close of the proposed taxable year and the date designated as the close of the proposed taxable year. The due date of the separate return for such period is the fifteenth day of the third month following the close of that period.

Q. When property purchased on contract or agreement and the property is rented and the money received for the rent is paid on the contract, is the rent received by the party buying the property taxable or is the party that owns the property to pay the tax?—Subscriber of Record-Herald.

A. The rental as received by the property on contract is an item of income to be reported by him in his return. Against this he may deduct property taxes as paid, interest on principal and depreciation on the cost value of the house to him to the extent of the contract amounts as paid.

Comment — So-called taxes, more properly assessments, paid for local benefits, such as street, sidewalk and other like improvements, imposed because of and measured by some benefit inuring directly to the property against which the assessment is levied, do not constitute an allowable deduction from gross income. A tax is considered assessed against local benefits when the property subject to the tax is limited to property benefited. Special assessments are not deductible even though an incidental benefit may inure to the public welfare. The taxes deductible are those levied for the general public welfare by the proper taxing authorities at a like rate against all property in the territory over which such authorities have jurisdiction. Assessments under the statutes of California relating to irrigation and of Iowa relating to drainage, and under certain statutes of Tennessee relating to levees, are limited to property benefited, and when it is clear that the assessments are so limited, the amounts as so paid are not deductible as taxes.

"Removed" Wife's Chum

William Grubb, a New York private detective, objected to the friendship between his wife and George Corcoran last spring and when it became too intimate he killed Corcoran on May 1. Recently he was found guilty of manslaughter. Grubb's defense was that his wife told him she liked her "chum" because he "used to steal silk stockings, watches and other nice things and give them to her." Grubb found him in his home, partly disrobed, on the day he did the shooting.

Stork Interrupts Suit

Proceedings in a Hackensack, N. J., court were interrupted recently when one of the chief witnesses was taken ill. The court ordered his baliffs to go out and commander the first automobile they found. They did so and a few minutes after the witness, Mrs. Vincenzo Farraro of Fairview, N. J., reached her home, she gave birth to a son. The suit was for $10,000 damages, brought by Mrs. Ferraro and her husband against Joseph Grillo of Hackensack for assault. After the case was resumed the jury brought in a verdict for the plaintiffs.

Bridal Suit a Pair of Pajamas

Clad in pajamas, socks, and slippers, and covered by a mackintosh, a bridegroom was seen a few weeks ago hurrying into a London register office.

The man had taken out a license to be married an hour before the usual opening time, explaining to the registrar that an early ceremony was desired as his fiancee and himself wished to catch a train immediately after the ceremony. When he entered the registrar's office about six inches of his pajamas were showing below his mackintosh.

He apologized to his bride and to the registrar, explaining that he had overslept, and that if he had stopped to dress they would have missed their train.

After the ceremony the registrar turned to complete the ceretificate, and while the wife paid the balance of the license the husband rushed downstairs and, in the waiting car, slipped a pair of trousers over his pajamas.

Ferry Co. May Short Cut Route To Canyon Road

The board of directors of the Six-Minute Ferry Company intimated yesterday that the company may construct a short cut road from Crockett up the canyon to connect with the Franklin Canyon road.

In order to compete with the Rodeo line, which will soon open its new slip between Oleum and Selby, and to avoid the congested turns about Selby, the company is endeavoring to find a way around the Valona slide on the state highway.

Rex Ingram Star At T. & D. Theater In Strong Film

Rex Ingram, through his masterful production for Metro of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," established himself supreme among directors. A tremendous spectacle, envisaging the war as reflected through two continents, it overwhelmed with a superb sense of power.

In "The Conquering Power," his newest production, seen last night at the Richmond T. & D. Theater today and tomorrow, he works in an entirely different genre. Here we have an intensely intimate study of family life, a universal story of love and greed against the background of a French provincial town. The story has been adapted by June Mathis from Balzac's novel, "Eugenie Grandet," with swift-moving, masterful continuity. Mr. Ingram has illustrated it with pictures that have the tonal quality of great works of art; the soft lighting of the photography and the perfectly composed groupings give an exquisite sense of reality. It is a long stride from "The Four Horsemen," but, as an artistic achievement, no less noteworthy.

Although there are no official stars three of the actors stand out with a stellar glow. Alice Terry, delicately beautiful and charming, gives a deeply moving performance as Eugenie; Rudolph Valentino, handsome and debonnair, plays the lover, Charles, with a wealth of warm Latin temperament and magnetism, and Ralph Lewis, remembered as the stoneman of "The Birth of a Nation," is thrillingly convincing as Eugenie's miserly father. Others in the distinguished cast are Edward Connelly, Edna Dumary, George Atkinson, Willard Lee Hall, Mary Hearn, Bridgetta Clark, Mark Fenton, Eugene Pouyet and Ward Wing. The photography is by John F. Seitz and the art interiors by Ralph Barton and Amos Myers.

American Writer Gives Last Days to World Peace

KATRINA TRASK

WHILE the World's Statesmen conferred to determine what steps could be taken to make the limitation of armaments a reality, one American woman kept everlastingly at the task she set herself years ago—that of portraying the beauties of peace and the horrors of war.

Mrs. George Foster Peabody, known in many lands as Katrina Trask, who died recently, long keenly comprehended the torture of nations when war comes. So this master of the pen, in poetry and in prose, preached against war with all the vigor of her intense soul.

Katrina Trask Peabody's play, "In the Vanguard," originally printed in 1913 and today being reprinted for the eighth time, is one of her many writings which is pleading the cause of disarmament the world over.

"In the Vanguard" is the play which contains such oft-quoted sentences as:

"Blow a man to pieces in the name of patriotism, and then try to patch him together in the name of humanity."

Trout Rod Is Sign of Spring

"Well, Sis, spring is here all right. Dad brought home a new trout rod tonight, and you know that is a sure sign. He always begins to read up on California geography about this time of year to find a brand new trout stream where he hasn't fished yet. And speaking of spring, Sis, I suppose you will follow the usual lead and grab dad now in a happy mood for a lot of new clothes. How about it?"

"You horrid thing. You talk like I have to hit dad on the head to get some new things. Well, I don't see as it happens. I am not even worried about spring clothes this year."

"Whew! How come, Sis? Going to marry some poor fellow who couldn't escape?"

"Not yet, dear brother. You didn't know, did you, that dad is giving me a new allowance and I get my clothes out of that. I buy everything at Cherry's now at 515 13th street. The Lost Needle

THERE'S an old English play known as "Gammer Gurton's Needle." Its plot is woven around the loss of the family needle—no trifling misfortune in the days of old.

Today, in this era of ours, life is so rich in comforts that we seldom wonder how folks got along in the ancient world. And we sometimes forget what an important role advertising has played in making life pleasant and altogether livable.

Advertising has one of the leading parts in the eternal drama of dollars. To it is directly due much of the multiplication of products and services which has come about during the last half century.

It has smoothed the mechanics of existence—made life easier and more pleasant by bringing countless necessities—once considered luxuries—within our reach and into continuous use.

Think of this for a minute. You owe much to advertising.

And you miss much when you fail to read it!

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Occupying a dilapidated shack in the Silent City, a squatter settlement near Ithaca, New York, Polly Hopkins lives with her father, small Jerry, and an old woman, Granny Hope. On an adjacent farm, Oscar Bennett, prosperous farmer, is a neighbor. He is secretly married to Evelyn Robertson, supposedly wealthy girl of the neighborhood. Polly alone knows their secret. Marcus MacKenzie, who owns the ground the squatters occupy, is their determined enemy. Polly overhears a conversation between MacKenzie and a stranger, in which the former avows his intention of driving the squatters from his land. The stranger sympathizes with the squatters, and earns Polly's gratitude.

CHAPTER II.—Evelyn Robertson discovers from her mother that they are not rich, as she supposed, but practically living on the bounty of Robert Percival, Evelyn's cousin.

CHAPTER III.—Polly learns from Evelyn that the sympathetic stranger is Robert Percival. Evelyn charges Polly with a message to Bennett, telling him she can give him no more money, and urging him to be patient. She already bitterly regrets her infatuation with and marriage to the ignorant farmer.

CHAPTER IV.—Polly conveys her message, and Oscar makes threats. He insists Evelyn meet him that night. Polly has her father and Larry Bishop, a squatter who has suffered from the enmity of MacKenzie, take an oath to do him no injury.

CHAPTER V.—Evelyn unsuccessfully tries to get money from her mother with which to buy off Bennett and induce him to leave the country, giving her her freedom. She is really enamored of Marcus MacKenzie. At the arranged meeting that night Bennett threatens Evelyn with exposure unless she procures money for him.

CHAPTER VI.—Polly meets Robert Percival, and they are mutually attracted, Polly's feeling being something like adoration.

CHAPTER VII.—Overhearing a conversation between Polly and Robert Percival, Bennett, really caring nothing for Evelyn and fancying himself in love with Polly, waylays the girl when she leaves Percival and abuses and threatens her. Percival returns and thrashes the farmer. He asks Polly in what way he can aid her and she begs him to help the squatters. Percival is rich and influential, though lacking the power of MacKenzie, but agrees to do his best. MacKenzie visits the Hopkins shack with an offer to the squatters, through Hopkins, to leave the vicinity, offering them a trifling sum of money. The offer is refused and MacKenzie threatens to burn their pitiful dwellings and leave them homeless.

CHAPTER VIII.—Polly visits Percival in the Robertson home in an effort to enlist his aid, and he is on the point of declaring his love for her, when the girl, in a panic, flees. MacKenzie asks Evelyn to be his wife. The girl agrees to marry him after he has bought the Bennett farm and got rid of the squatters. Robert fails in an effort to secure the aid of Mrs. Robertson and Evelyn in a project to help the Silent City people.

CHAPTER IX.—Knowing Bennett's infatuation for Polly, Evelyn tries to induce the girl to promise to marry him, he having agreed to release Evelyn to secure Polly. In love with Percival, though scarcely realizing it, the girl refuses. Meeting Robert next day, he tells her he loves her, and she acknowledges a similar feeling for him. MacKenzie lays a trap for Hopkins and the latter is arrested.

CHAPTER X.—Polly goes to the Robertson home to enlist Percival's aid in freeing her father. MacKenzie jeers at her. He is also deaf to Robert's pleadings, and the latter, though assuring Polly of all the help he can give her, feels himself powerless.

CHAPTER XI.—A week later Polly, alone during a heavy thunder storm with her little brother and Granny Hope, has a visit from Evelyn. She tells Polly something has "struck" Oscar. The two women carry him from the road into the shack. He is insensible. Polly sets out to get a doctor. She meets Percival, who accompanies her back to the hut. Evelyn tells Robert she is there on a visit to small Jerry. She insinuates that Bennett is Polly's sweetheart. Robert believes her, since the girl, true to a promise to Evelyn, does not deny it. He conducts Evelyn from the hut, after bitterly denouncing Polly for her duplicity. Bennett dies and Evelyn is free.

CHAPTER XII.—Polly borrows a dress from Evelyn and with Jerry tries to beat her way on a train to Auburn prison to visit her daddy. She is discovered by MacKenzie and Percival. Evelyn is with them and denies having given the dress to Polly, who is accused of stealing it. Percival takes her home, disgusted.

CHAPTER XIII.—Evelyn and MacKenzie are married. Determined to oust the squatters, MacKenzie takes Baby Jerry from Polly, intending to place him in an institution. Polly's heart is broken. She swears to have revenge.

more for the place than it was really worth.

"You've spoken to this squatter girl about what you want, Bennett?" asked Marcus, going to the point at once.

"Yes, sure I have," growled Oscar. "I told you that t'other day; but Polly seems to be always holding off for something. If she toes the mark, then I'll sell my farm and take her West. I won't have that brat of a Jerry, though, but I suppose Pollyll make a row when I tell her that."

"You won't be worried with the boy, Bennett. I'm going to have the Children's society take him. Hopkins will serve a long term, and if you marry Polly, the rest of the pests will scatter after a while. I'll be glad to be rid of the whole Hopkins tribe. But that girl is like a burr; she sticks tighter, the more you pull!"

"That's the bargain, Mr. MacKenzie. I sell the farm at the price we talked if I get Polly Hopkins. If I don't get her, then I won't sell. I can make a good living here for me and my mother, and I don't intend to leave this country without Pollyop."

The thought of his staying around Ithaca filled Evelyn with dread. She knew something of the tenacity with which he clung to any notion that might take possession of him. How could she have ever submitted to his caresses? And the words, "Until death do us part," rang in her ears, filling her with nauseating disgust.

"I wish he were dead this minute," she thought passionately.

She was waiting for Oscar to continue, but he evidently did not intend to; so, settling back as if anxious to start, she said coldly:

"I'll go to her then, as soon as I can."

"When—today, ma'am?" asked Oscar eagerly.

If she had to approach Polly Hopkins about this disagreeable matter, the sooner the better, Evelyn thought.

"Yes," she consented languidly. "I might go now, I suppose."

"But you won't find her home till night, Eve," Marcus informed her. "She's gone to see her father before he goes to Auburn. I tried to put the quietus on that, but Bob cut up so I told the sheriff to let her in."

"Then I'll telephone you later, Mr. Bennett," said Evelyn, lifting her chin haughtily as if he were really beneath her consideration. "Good afternoon!"

The hours passed slowly by! It seemed an eternity to Oscar while he waited the call from Evelyn. When he heard her voice over the telephone, he answered gruffly:

"Now, don't be nasty, Oscar," ordered Evelyn imperiously. "I'm doing the best I can. I'm in a booth talking, and if you'll meet me at seven, we'll go together to Polly Hopkins. Does that suit you all right?"

"You don't suit me very well," Oscar grumbled into the receiver. "I'd like to give you the licking of your life, my lady."

Evelyn's laugh came ringing across the wire.

"Don't put yourself out, my dear man," she taunted. "Now, don't start bullying me over the phone, Oscar, for I won't stand it. Hold your temper if you can possibly do so. For once do as I tell you! Will you?"

"Oh, I suppose so," Bennett rapped out. "Where'll I meet you?"

"Well, let me see. At seven on the boulevard, near the lane."

"All right!" and Oscar slammed up the receiver without waiting to hear any more, and proceeded about his farm tasks. Thoughts of anger toward Eve, now so overbearing and contemptuous, were soon crowded out, however, by anticipation of the time when Polly would belong to him—be his to love or abuse at his own sweet will, for Oscar had little doubt that the squatter girl would eventually yield to his will.

Pollyop, meanwhile, quite unconscious of Oscar's vicious intentions, was already utterly overwhelmed with misery.

After the meager supper was over that night, she sat crouched near the wood-box, her arm around Billy Hopkins' stringy neck. Granny Hope was in bed and Wee Jerry, having cried himself to sleep, was in Jeremiah's room, rolled up in a blanket.

For the first time in her life Polly had seen her father weep. How impetuously she had kissed away his tears! How she had hung to his neck! When they had been forced to leave him, Jerry had shrieked his misery all the way through the streets of Ithaca.

To make the matter worse, it began to rain, to thunder and lighten. And now, a forlorn, lonely little creature, she sat listening to the tempest outside with no company but the billy goat.

How listless and hopeless she felt! Only when the thunder rolled over the lake, and the lightning flashed across the sky, did she lift her head. When she was happy, Polly loved the storms, but now, with Daddy in Auburn, how could she bear the thrashing rain and the moan of the willow trees as they swung to and fro over the shanty roof?

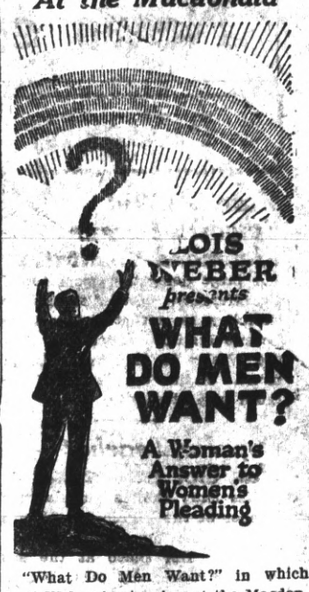

She found herself wishing fearfully that the storm would sweep off to the south and down behind the hills. Over and over in her mind went the thought that perhaps she could have helped Daddy if she had done what Evelyn wanted her to. Why hadn't she consented to marry Oscar two weeks ago? She knew why, and, blushing, blamed herself. She could not keep the image of Robert Percival from smiling at her.

All of a sudden a frightful flash of lightning made dim the flicker from the small candle, and was followed instantly by a thunderous roar that shook the very earth. Mingled with it came a woman's scream. Polly struggled to her feet. Some one was in trouble! Some squatter-woman was calling her. She dashed toward the door just as it flung wide open, and Evelyn Robertson rushed in.

"Polly Hopkins," she cried, grasping the squatter girl's arm, "Pollyop, something struck Oscar, and he's dead in the road."

Nationally Known Club-Woman Endorses Lois Weber Photoplays

In a recent communication Mrs. Bailey, who is perhaps the most outstanding figure in women's club affairs in the Middle West, says:

"I believe that the opposition in Illinois to the movies has arisen from a lack of understanding of just such producers as Lois Weber, her objects and ideals."

Lois Weber finds time even while making photoplays in Los Angeles to attend to her club duties. Each year on her annual trip to and from New York she speaks at meetings of clubwomen in the larger cities en route.

On her recent trip to New York Miss Weber addressed club women in Pittsburg, Kansas City, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Newark, N. J. on "Woman's Influence in the Photoplay World." In Denver, Salt Lake, Topeka and Indianapolis she spoke on "Moving Picture Censorship" and "The Sunday Blue Laws."

Miss Weber keeps in close touch with club women because she is frank to admit that it is from them that she frequently obtains many of the Germ plots for her photoplays.

Miss Weber will be seen at the Macdonald Theater today and Saturday in "What Do Men Want?" declared by many to be her master achievement of the silver sheet.

GIVE FONG WAN HERBS CREDIT FOR HIS LIFE

Willits, Cal., Nov. 14, 1921.

It affords me much pleasure to express my approval of the FONG WAN HERB CO. I suffered from liver and stomach for twenty years. After X-ray and other examinations medical physicians pronounced my case a surgical one. They declared that no treatment could reach the seat of my trouble. They said that the operation would consist of removing a duodenal ulcer, my appendix and gall bladder; also that there would have to be a pyloric operation.

Dreading the operating table, I took up treatment with the FONG WAN HERB CO., 548 Eighth St., Oakland. At that time I weighed but 126 pounds, my normal weight being 170 pounds. My condition in general was very weak.

After three months' use of the Herbs, I went to work handling lumber ten hours each day. Have now held the job fourteen months and have not lost a day on account of my old trouble. It is the first time I have been able to go longer than three months in twenty years without being sick in bed. I feel that I can give the FONG WAN HERB TREATMENT credit for my life. My present weight is 160 pounds.

LEGION HEADS WILL APPEAR BEFORE BOARD AT MARTINEZ

With an agreement reached between American Legion Posts of the county relative to the division of funds for memorial buildings in the various towns, a committee of the Legion posts next Monday expect to take the matter of the special tax to raise the necessary funds up with the Board of Supervisors.

The last session of the legislature passed a bill providing that Supervisors can levy a special tax of three mills on the dollar to be given to legion organizations for memorial buildings.

The committee that will appear before the Supervisors will be made up of representatives of each Legion post in the county. Although the special tax levy can not be made until next September, the Legion will appear before the supervisors to learn the attitude of the board regarding the matter and the prospects for securing the special levy.

Burt Stuart Heir Apparent To Trillions

"We have with us today, Burt Stuart, Elk, Epicure and heir presumptive to the largest potential fortune in the history of the world."

When Burt Stuart's fellow club members at the Elks' Club last night at dinner were informed by him that his father is the Henry B. Stuart, hay dealer, 561 Market street, San Jose, mentioned in dispatches from the Santa Clara capital as being worth $304,840,832,912,685.16 (whew!) there was a marked lifting of eyebrows.

Think of those trillions!

Stuart, pere, loaned one George Jones $100 back in 1897. The loan bore 10 per cent interest to be compounded monthly.

Jones then left California, as the story goes.

Fortune smiled upon him, in "bleeding Kansas."

Stuart sued and Jones confessed judgment.

Burt remembers the loan his father made.

He went to San Francisco last night to select a suite at the Fairmont, and to look over specifications for a yacht in which to cruise the Mediterranean.

The ceremony will be quiet, though.

JOHNNY PERES WELL AGAIN

TWILIGHT LEAGUE NAMES OFFICERS

Baseball fans of Richmond will be glad to know that Howard French is going to head the Twilight League this season.

French has made good in the position of president of the league, and to displace him—if anyone harbored such an idea it has not come to light—would be like "swapping horses in the middle of a stream" when the rider has a good mount.

To serve with French as the other officers have been re-elected, save Al Childs, vice-president, whose duties as night superintendent suggested the expediency to Childs of declining the honor. He is succeeded by Tom Shea.

The others re-elected are Charley Burns, recording secretary, and H. M. Flint, secretary-treasurer.

Richmond Club To Hold Food Sale

The members of the Richmond Club will hold a food sale in the office of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company on March 11. Mrs. C. F. De Shields is chairman of the committee in charge of the sale.

Business will occupy all of the meeting of the club next Monday.

Oil Chief For Galena Signal Refinery Here Soon, Report

The presence at the city hall yesterday of representatives of the Galena Signal Oil Company who sought copies of the building ordinances of this city indicates that the work of constructing the $500,000 refinery here is to go forward without delay.

Incidentally, the company's representatives discussed the general subject of the system and mode of procedure in construction work hereabouts.

Henry Winkler, reported as the man to be in charge of the plant here, is scheduled to arrive in Richmond about April 1.

Charles A. Miller, superintendent of the plant at Franklin, Pa., has returned to his home.

The work here will be directed from the San Francisco office of the company, it is said.

First National Bank Team To Enter Three Cs

At a meeting held by the First National Bank baseball team on Wednesday night it was decided to enter the team in the 3C League, which probably will be composed of teams from Crockett, Martinez, Bay Point, Concord, Antioch, Brentwood, Pittsburg and the First National Bank of Richmond. The league will play the first games on the first Sunday in April. Realizing the strength of the league, the local bankers have signed up Emmet Daley and Carl Kamb, who are at present starring in the Tribune League. Both of them are Richmond boys and will greatly strengthen the local team.

The bank team recently won the class B championship of the Oakland Enquirer and will be presented with a large silver cup immediately upon the return of Charles J. Cleary, when a banquet will be held.

To keep in trim the local team will play the fast Fiorio-Rigoni team of Oakland on next Sunday.

At the meeting A. Banducci was elected captain and W. Kruger manager.

ODD FELLOWS TO CONFER DEGREE

At the coming meeting it is expected that there will be visitors from different lodges of the East Bay region.

Quite a number of Odd Fellows attended the meeting of Eclipse Lodge last Monday night, when visitors were present from Martinez and other cities of this area.

A letter was read from George N. Rooker, the Richmond manager of the Western States Gas and Electric Company, in which he stated that if the reflectors in use on the 100-watt lamps on the streets of El Cerrito were unsatisfactory, the company would be glad to co-operate with the trustees and install a reflector that would meet with the approval of the board.

Bids Promised Next Week on Junior High School Plans

The Board of Education at their meeting next week probably will call for bids for the erection of the Roosevelt Junior High school at Ninth and Bissell.

City Superintendent of Schools W. T. Helms announced yesterday that the specifications are being typed, and it is believed that they will be ready for submission when the board meets next week.

RANCH HAND IS BURNED TO DEATH

The charred remains of Henry Beauford, negro ranch hand on the Charles Regan ranch, at San Pablo, was the gruesome spectacle that greeted the eyes of Mrs. Regan and her friend, Mrs. Evans, at the ranch yesterday when they were walking towards the barn from the residence.

Beauford had been using the barn for sleeping quarters. The assumption, when a lighted lamp, sans chimney, was found in the barn, was that Beauford's clothes caught from the lamp; that he ran towards the water hydrant and fell, face down, where he died.

The man's clothes practically had been burned from his body.

The body was turned over to Deputy Coroner Fred Maas, and an inquest will be held later.
